

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

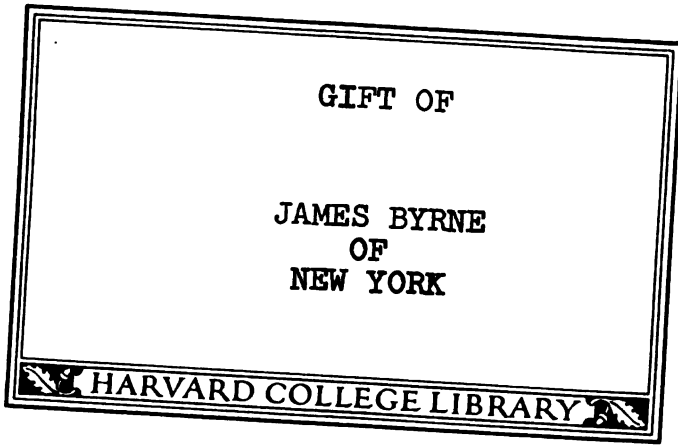

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. My dear Sir

I have from my eldest daughter that she had the pleasure of meeting you some weeks ago at Oxford, & that you said that it was possible you might have some business this part of the week. In connection with the affairs of your Religion the late excellent Mr. Gurney said, I write to say that I trust that if this is so, you will come & visit us here. & I send out with love
welcome your visit with us;

We are yours

returned from Ireland after a six months residence there.
 I had a letter some time since from Dr. Murray who is engaged with the Anderson papers. He very kindly sent me some proofs relating to J. R. Shirlay.
 Shirlay, now interesting to me. I do not quite understand whether all these letters are
 - sent to J. R. Shirlay or to be printed in the Calendar of the Anderson papers? In regard, I should like to

John Up

of the whole of them. They often take of good interest to all engaged in the history of the land during the Revolution.

Hoping to hear from you soon
Believe me always

Sincerely yours

W. G. Neale

Dr.

My daughter also says that you told her I had not sent the 2^d

Vol. of them: I have sent the 1st Vol., but it was published, & was certainly sent there. If you are for

LIBER LIBRUM APERIT.

THE books whose titles appear in the following catalogue, relating solely to Irish literature, have been collected almost entirely within the last twenty years. It need scarcely, however, be observed, that they do not by any means pretend to be a perfect collection of the great number of works which have from time to time been printed on the history of the sister kingdom. It is a library of a far less comprehensive character, relating, in the first place, to Irish history and antiquities, together with a less perfect collection of authors who have written on Ireland, in illustration more particularly of its progress and improvement. Indeed, the collector of this Irish library would not have committed the catalogue to the press, but for the opinion of more than one gentleman well versed in the history of Ireland, who persuaded him that it would be desirable to do so, considering, perhaps with the too partial judgment of friends, that the library was of a somewhat rare and uncommon character, and deserved therefore to be permanently remembered, even after it may have been dispersed by the hammer of the auctioneer—a fate, however, which the owner has endeavoured to avert, by making it an heirloom in his family.

All those who have had any experience in cataloguing books will, I am sure, agree that it is no easy task to do so with precision, and will, therefore, make allowance for the writer, if he has not always succeeded. He has endeavoured simply to use the alphabetical order, arranging the library under the names of the authors, where they are attainable, as well as under the subjects to which they relate, anonymous works have, however, generally been placed under "Ireland;" those relating to the Church, under "Church of Ireland;" the Civil War tracts of the seventeenth century, under "Rebellion" and "Revolution;" and "Union Tracts" under that title. And for more complete reference, an index of names, places and subjects, not appearing in the primary alphabetical order, has been added; some notes illustrative of the rarer books and editions are appended; for many of these the writer must not forget to record his obligations to the Rev. Dr. Reeves, of Armagh, whose name, indeed, is associated with almost every work which has of late years issued from the press in connection with the true history and antiquities of Ireland.

This learned, but egotistical and eccentric divine was curate of Lurgan in the County of Armagh. His father, Dr. John Barton, was a fellow and Vice-Provost of Trinity College, Dublin, and had the distinction of being tutor to Dr. Thomas Wilson, Bishop of Sodor and Man. He was violently expelled from his residence in the college, on account of his Protestant principles, by the adherents of King James II. The son was a Scholar of Trin. Coll., Dubl., in 1724; graduated B. A. in 1726; and M. A. in 1731.

— Lectures in Natural Philosophy, designed to be a foundation for reasoning pertinently, upon the Petrifications, Gems, Crystals, and fanative quality of Lough Neagh in Ireland; and intended to be an Introduction to the Natural History of several Counties contiguous to that Lake, particularly the County of Armagh. 8vo. Dublin, 1751.

Prefixed is a frontispiece containing a perspective view of part of Lough Neagh, shewing Ram's Island, with its round tower; which is called here (after Speed) Innis Garden, a corruption of Innis Darcargren, its name in the Annal. Ulst. 1056, 1121.

This vol. was published by subscription, and the names of those subscribers who took copies of the "Analogy" have a special mark. There were two impressions, one on printing paper, at 9s. 9d., and the other on writing paper, at 13s. half bound.

— Some Remarks, towards a full Description of Upper and Lower Lough Lene, near Killarney, in the County of Kerry. (Anon.). 4to. Dublin, 1751.

"Price a British Six-Pence."

The Irish Library,

BARTON (Richard), B. D. A Dialogue, concerning some things of importance to Ireland; particularly to the County of Ardmagh. Being part of a design to write the natural, civil, and ecclesiastical history of that county.

4to. Dublin, 1751.

BATTERSBY (William Joseph). The Repealer's Manual; or, absenteeism and the union reconsidered. (2 parts).

8vo. Dublin, 1833.

BAYLY (Henry). Topographical and Historical Account of Lisburn.

12mo. Belfast, 1834.

BEACON (Richard), of Gray's Inn, sometime Q. Elizabeth's Attorney of the Province of Munster. Solon his Follie; or, a Politique Discourse touching the Reformation of Commonwealths, conquered, declined, or corrupted.

Sm. 4to. Oxford, 1594.

Relating to the state of Ireland in the reign of Elizabeth, the names of places are given in some instances in disguise, thus Athens stands for England, Salamina for Ireland, &c. It is in dialogue, and written to show the advantages resulting from abolishing the customs of coin and livery.

BEAUFORT (Daniel Augustus), LL.D., Rector of Navan. Memoir of a map of Ireland; illustrating the Topography of that Kingdom, and containing a short Account of its present State, Civil and Ecclesiastical.

BETHAM (Sir William). Ulster King-of-Arms. Irish Antiquarian Researches. Vol. I, [2 parts in 1], 8vo. Dublin, 1827.

The early part of this book was kept in type till a considerable portion was printed, of which there is evidence in the references to pages many sheets subsequent to those in which the first mention is. The Life of St. Patrick in the Appendix, printed from the Book of Armagh, is a wretched specimen of editorial qualification.

BRISACIER (Le Pere). Censure de Monseigneur l'Archevesque de Paris contre le livre intitulé "Le Jansenisme Confondu."

Dec. 29, 1651.

This violent attack on Father Callaghan appears to have been called forth by the publication of the celebrated "Vindiciæ Catholicorum Hiberniæ," usually attributed to R. Beling, but which Brisacier says was by Callaghan. At the end of part 3 is a most abusive satire upon Callaghan, by Poncius, an Irish Jesuit.

HOLY SCRIPTURES. The New Testament in the Irish Character. Sm. fol. Dublin, 1602.

Although it bears the date of 1602 on the title, it could not have been published till the next year, as it is dedicated to King James I. This is the very rare Editio princeps of the New Testament in the Irish character, printed with the types provided by Queen Elizabeth at the very beginning of her reign; the first work printed with them was the Irish Catechism and Primer of John Kearney, printed in the year 1571. This New Testament was the second work, and in 1608 the Book of Common Prayer, also in the Irish language. About the year 1609, the types were purchased from the King's printer by the Jesuits, who sent them to Douay, where they were used for a very different purpose from that for which they were originally designed. In 1678 the edition of 1602-3 was so rare that a copy for the purpose of republication was with the utmost difficulty found.

KEATING (Jeffery). The General History of Ireland.

Fo. Dublin, 1723.
 This translation is by Dermot O'Connor, and is very loose and inaccurate.

— Another Edition. Fo. 1 p. London, 1738.

— A Complete History of Ireland, from the first colonization of the Island, to the Anglo-Norman Invasion.

(1 vol. 8vo. all printed,) Dublin, 1811.

This volume brings down the work only to the Christian era. It is very valuable, containing the Irish text, and a faithful translation on opposite pages. The Editor was William Haliday of Dublin. The life of the author, which is prefixed, is rarely found complete.

Fol. second edition, Armagh, 1854.

This work appeared first in the Armagh Guardian Newspaper. It was so printed that half a leaf of each paper was occupied on front and back with a portion of the Memoir, so that on being cut off and folded it exhibited four pages. And thus it was continued to the end. The late Primate, in testimony of his admiration of the work, had 100 copies separately struck off, for which he presented the learned author with £100. A copy of the series of the Newspaper, containing the work in situ, was presented by the author to the Royal Irish Academy, in whose library it is preserved.

RICH [or Rych or Riche] (Barnabe). A Short Survey of Ireland, truly discovering who it is that hath so armed the hearts of that people with disobedience to their Prince: with a description of the country, and the condition of the people; no lesse necessarie and needfull to be respected by the English, than requisite and behooveful to be reformed in the soil.

Sm. 4to. London, 1669 for 1669.

Notwithstanding the title, this, the earliest, and one of the rarest of Barnaby Rich's Irish Tracts, is almost entirely polemical, with scarcely any description of the country.

— A new Description of Ireland, wherein is described the disposition of the Irish whereunto they are inclined. No less admirable to be perused then credible to be believed: neither unprofitable nor unpleasant to bee read and understood, by those worthy Cittizens of London that be now undertakers in Ireland.

Sm. 4to. London, 1610.

— A true and a kinde Excuse written in Defence of that Booke, entituled, A new Description of Irelande, &c.
